THE HOUSE DISSOLVED.

The announcement made in THE TIMES of Saturday that the Local Legislature had been dissolved created a sensation throughout the city. The news, however, proved to be correct for an extra of the Gazette issued that evening fully confirmed every statement made in these columns as regards the issuing of the writs; the date fixed for the nominations and the day of polling, all of which have been named excepting those for Cassiar and Kootenay, which have been issued in blank to be filled up by the returning officers for these districts. The province, therefore is in the throes of a general election. The conflict, however, will be a short and a decisive one. In a day or two candidates will be in the field throughout the province. The government for some weeks past has been apprising its supporters in the several districts that the contest was at hand and urging them to be prepared for the fray. Those who consider the government as unworthy the confidence of the electorate must now go to work with a will and a determination to wrest from the quartette the power they have so unworthily exercised for the last four years. Never before in the history of this province, or that of any other country where responsible government obtains, has a feeling so intense prevailed against the government as that which is to be encountered everywhere throughout British Columbia. Deliberate and brazen faced must be the individual who has the hardihood to uphold the SMITH-ROBSON government and its policy, which has been one grand scheme of colossal plunder and nepotism, to say nothing of its incapacity to deal with the simplest of political problems, or the extravagance which has marked its career in the management of the province's finances. We are persuaded the great mass of the people desire a change and that a transformation will undoubtedly take place. In the province are to be found able, honest reliable men, whose desire is not to fatten and become wealthy at the public crib, at the expense of the ratepayers; men who will place country before party or the allurements and emoluments of office; men who will not, unlike such political Judases as SIMEON DUCK, bow down the knee for a few glittering dollars and abnegate the principles which they hitherto advocated, the support of which gained them a seat in the Assembly. Of such creatures the country has had a surfeit.

The electors will then act wisely in seeing to it that none but men of honor, probity, intelligence and possessing a capacity to deal with the many important questions, vital to the interests of the province, that are certain to be brought before them for consideration, shall receive their support or countenance. As a rule, candidates of the "independent" stripe are not manly or honest enough to pronounce for or against either party while soliciting the suffrages of the electors, but no sooner are they elected than a "flop" is made to the strongest side, that on which the flesh pots and political spoils are to be encountered. Such at all events is the experience in all other sections of the country in which the independents are to be met with, and being for sale to the highest bidder they are not a very desirable class to be entrusted with power and electors will be careful to place them in a position to take advantage of, and betray the trust reposed in them.

In the city the Hon. SIMEON DUCK is already in the field. Knowing he has a hard road to travel—as is generally the case with all floppers and proselytes—he is as busy as a bee canvassing every individual he encounters. Electors, however, will do well to be on their guard and make no pledges, for it is not yet known who will be in the field. Of this they rest assured that no more unreliable, pliable or purchaseable politician would have the audacity to ask a renewal of confidence than the present Provincial Treasurer. In a day or two candidates possessing the confidence of a vast majority of the electors of the city will be in the field. Till then the electors should withhold their promises.

HIGH-HANDED PROCEEDINGS.

The government have been guilty of most extraordinary conduct in the selection of Motlakatlah, where the nomination of candidates for election in the Legislative Assembly shall take place for the district of Cassiar. If it was thought best to have the nominations take place on the coast, why not, in the name of all that is just and fair, have selected either Fort Simpson, Port Essington, or Aberdeen, where people attending could obtain some accommodation, and where there are centered at each place a number of electors. It is well known that Metlakatlah, the point named, is simply a place where a number of our Indian people have built a town for themselves, on an Indian reservation, and where it is known that with the exception of the Bishop and perhaps one assistant, Mr. DUNCAN and perhaps one assistaut, all missionaries, there are not any white residents in the village. All the other places which are named there are quite a few resident whites engaged in business and other pursuits. It is well known to the government that Mr. DUNCAN, who has been residing at Metlakatlah for a number of years, and who in fact established this Indian colony, has always been against white people staying there. In view of these facts, why should our fair (?) government select the place which they have done.

THE TIMES feels sure that the selection will meet with the general disappointment of the electors of that part of the district to say nothing of the more northern portion.

The best laid schemes of mice and men
Gang aft agley.

Again, it may well be asked why the government have ignored a resolution of the Legislative Assembly passed during the session of 1883 asking that Fort Simpson be made a polling place. Instead of complying with the wishes of the House, Metlakatlah, an Indian village some 10 or 12 miles distant, has been selected.

And again during the session of 1885 another resolution was passed, asking that Port Essington and Lorne Creek be made polling places. That resolution has also been ignored by the government, as far as it relates to Port Essington, and Aberdeen some three miles distant has been chosen. This last change does not really make so much difference, only it shows with what contempt our present government are capable of treating the well known wishes of the Legislature. When that is done in small matters, the electors can easily understand that they are equally capable of following out the same high handed policy in measures of greater enormity.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS

To be Answered by the Supporters of Smithe, Robson & Co.

To THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR: To-day, to the surprise of all save those within the sacred circle of governmental favor, comes the information that writs have been issued for calling a new Legislative Assembly, nominations to take place 23d inst., and polling on the 7th of July. May I ask is it in the interest of the province, or of the government that the people are thus called upon at comparatively a moment's notice to elect their representatives? The short time allowed, if it does not disfranchise them practically, renders their votes useless, as they are left without time to discuss either the many issues now before them, or to make a prudent choice of representatives; whether the policy of the government in the past has been productive of equitable laws and equitable taxation; efficiency in the collection of public revenue, and just economy in its distribution; whether the public lands have been wisely and honestly dealt with for the benefit of the province; whether the patronage of the province has been distributed with due regard to efficiency and merit; whether that monstrous swindle known as the "Settlement Bill," by which the province was robbed of millions of acres and given to one man free of taxation for ever, is satisfactory to the people; whether the giving of 6000 acres of the people's land at Burrard Inlet to the Canadian Pacific Railway, as a bribe to enhance the value of the property held there by the Hon. John Robson, meets with the approval of the majority; whether the alienation from the province to a foreign syndicate of hundreds of thousands of acres of the only agricultural lands in British Columbia, (at least of any extent) in Kootenay, is a matter for congratulation; whether it the statement of the honorable the Finance Minister, at the time of his "impromptu budget speech" that the country was $149,000 to the good and prospering surely and rapidly be true, it was necessary to ask the assembly to sanction the raising of a loan for $300,000, upon which we shall have, by increased taxation, to pay interest; whether the public offices are to be filled up from a class of persons conspicuous by their inexperience, their ignorance of the country, its people and their methods, whose only recommendation is their relationship to ministers, or their influential supporters, their religious belief, and membership of certain societies. These, sir, are a few among the many serious questions the people are now suddenly called on to decide.

For the last two years this government has been enabled, by a purchased, or cunningly cozened, majority of the house to rule despotically; and this their last act, this tyrannical and unprincipled invasion of our political rights, shows clearly how worthy they are to govern and amounts in my opinion almost to treason, for while it cannot deprive us of the power of voting it renders this power nugatory by insisting that we shall exercise it without time being given to think, and only under such conditions as are favorable to themselves. Afraid to meet the constituencies on fair terms; and fearful, if judged by their past acts, of a hostile vote, they have perpetrated this great iniquity which I think should be resented by the voters of the province to a man. The government have long been secretly preparing and are ready for the fray while the people are not. I suggest that a petition be circulated, signed and presented to His Honor the Lieut.-Governor, praying him to postpone the general elections for two months in order that the people may have an opportunity of considering the situation, and reasonable time in which to choose their representatives, to which the freedom of their institutions entitles them.

GETTING READY.

Palatial Parlor and Dining Cars for the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Elegant Equipment for the Transcontinental Service being Made.

Canadians, observes the Montreal Gazette, may well be proud of the rolling stock of their great national highway. The cars surpass anything ever seen on this continent and do credit to the management of the road. A few days since the first of a series of twelve new dining cars for the through route to British Columbia arrived at the C. P. R. depot. It is named the "Buckingham" and was built at James Crossan, & Co.'s works, at Cobourg, Ont. The whole structure is of solid mahogany, the interior is tastefully panelled and adorned with scroll work in gold leaf, and there are bevelled plate glass mirrors at the side of each of the ten tables. Ten elegant bronze and brass lamps supply plenty of light. The seats are upholstered in green embossed leather, and the floor is covered with crimson flowered Wilton carpet. The table linen was imported specially for the cars by Henry Morgan & Co., Montreal; the silverware was manufactured by the Meriden Silver Plate Company of Hamilton, Ont., and the cutlery was imported direct from Rogers of Sheffield, Eng., by Hutton, of Montreal. The kitchen is fitted up with one of Wilkes' ranges from Chicago, and is provided with boilers, steam fittings and all the appliances of a first-class hotel. The menu card is neatly engraved by George Bishop & Son, and shows a fine view of Red Rock, on the Nepigon River. The dining cars will be attached to the trains at Sudbury Junction and remain on the trains until they reach the Rocky Mountains, where the new hotels are being constructed.

THOROUGHLY ORGANIZED.

The company have now thoroughly organized the sleeping and dining car service, which will run from Quebec to this coast. As already stated the dining cars will only be run part of the way, but the palace sleepers will be run the entire distance. Mr. G. W. Swett is the superintendent and has the entire control of the whole management. There are about 70 men employed in the service, conductors, porters, waiters, cooks and stewards. The following are the names of the cars in use: Parlor cars: Carillon, Lachine, Calumet, Rideau. Sleeping cars without state rooms: Selkirk, Ignace, Cannoe, Quebec, Peterboro, Ontario, Perth, Garneau, St. Lawrence, Watigoon, Winnipeg, Portage la Prairie, Brandon, Kananaskis, Kaministiquia, Keewatin, Assiniboine, Qu'Appelle. Sleeping cars with state rooms: Chaudiere, Vancouver, Nepigon, Missanabie, Calgary, Kamloops. Sleeping cars with state room and bath: Yokohama, Tokio, Hongkong, Sydney, Canton, Honolulu, Auckland, Australia, Montreal, Toronto. The official cars: Metapedia, Sir G Stephen; Saskatchewan, Mr. Van Horne; Jamaica, Sir John Macdonald; Humber River, Mr. Spencer; No. 76, Mr. Whyte.

ANOTHER KNIGHT.

The Queen Confers the Honor of Knighthood Upon the Hon. Donald A. Smith.

It is now definitely known that Her Majesty the Queen has been graciously pleased to confer upon the Hon. Donald A. Smith, the title of Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George. Few in Canada are more deserving of royal favors than is Sir Donald, who for many years has occupied a prominent position in Canadian affairs since 1870, when that vast territory known as Manitoba and the Northwest but previous to that date claimed by the Hudson Bay Company—came under the control of the Dominion. For many years Sir Donald occupied the position of Chief Commissioner for that great corporation, and afterwards represented Winnipeg in the Federal Parliament until 1879, when his election was protested, and upon an appeal was defeated by Capt. (now Col.) Scott. Since then he has devoted his time to furthering his private interests in the many public institutions with which he is connected; and it is the best tribute to his business capacity to say that nothing that he has set his hand to has failed to prosper. The past few years he has been most prominently known as one of the chief members of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, and we have the public declaration of his friend and colleague, Sir George Stephen, for the statement that when doubt at one time hung about that enterprise it was in large measure due to his courage and resource that the difficulties were overcome, and the great national work carried to completion. He is possessed of large wealth, and has shown that he is willing to make use of it in the best manner. He has been a liberal patron of the arts, and has given freely to the cause of education. To many other institutions Sir Donald has contributed with generous hand, and in other ways, of which it is not meet that we should now speak, has aided those whom fortune has failed to smile upon. That he may be long spared to enjoy the well bestowed honor, and give aid and counsel to those institutions that he has well served in the past, is our wish, as we are sure it is that of all who have felt pride in the works to the advancement of which his energies have been devoted. His numerous friends in this city and province join in congratulating Sir Donald upon his well-earned honors.

A REMARKABLE SIGHT.

Sir Richard Temple, in his Cosmopolitan Essays thus describes his first glimpse of the Rockies: The approach to the Rocky Mountains from the prairie is, perhaps, the most remarkable in the world. I do not wish to give exaggerated ideas. * * * They are scarcely more than a third as high as the Himalaya. Nevertheless, the approach to them from the prairie is truly wonderful; for they rise as masses of rock right out of the prairie. During the greater part of the year they are covered with snow. * * As we approached the mountains, we actually saw about 150 miles of continuous snow-clad hills, which, rising straight out of the prairie, constitute a sight that is almost, if not quite unique. There is only one parallel to it, namely, the approach to the Caucasus from the steppes of Russia; and even this is not so fine, as there is first a range of low hills, then another a little higher, and again above all the summits of the snow-clad peaks of Caucasus.

The net earnings of the Pacific Mail Steamship Co. for the year ending April 30, were $1,300,000.

CANADA'S PREMIER.

What is Thought of Lady Macdonald as His Guardian Angel.

A correspondent writing THE TIMES from Ottawa concerning Sir John's proposed trip to the Pacific Coast says he has shown extraordinary ability to recuperate after his recent illness, and really astonishes his friends and others by his wonderful "jauntiness." All this, however, may be attributed to his good fortune in having an excellent wife. Lady Macdonald is a veritable guardian angel to her husband. She is mother, wife and nurse to him. A few years ago she took lessons in cookery from a accomplished "chef," in order that she might prepare his food in the most enticing and wholesome manner. Her care of him is unswerving. No sitting of the house is too long for her while he is in his place. She is the first to meet him when it adjourns; adjust his wraps as she would were he a favorite, delicate boy; tuck him into his carriage and carry him home, where everything that human foresight can provide is prepared to calm, strengthen and gratify him. Lady Macdonald is also a woman of high intellect, a keen politician, always ready to aid and supplement her husband in the arts and blandishments of public life. She has a resolute character and can be quite seductive when she pleases to exercise influence on those around her. It is a common saying that Sir John would have been dead long ago were it not for her care and watchfulness.

The suit brought by George Sleeman president of the Guelph base ball club and of the Canadian Base Ball League to restrain the Hamilton and Toronto clubs from joining the New York State League, has been decided in favor of the Hamilton and Toronto clubs.

A cablegram from Havre received at Halifax, announces that Hon. Wm. Macdougall, ex-M. P. P. for Hants, N. S., was washed overboard from his barque Salmon in mid-ocean and drowned. Deceased was a large ship owner and was going to Europe in a splendid new ship he had recently built.

The sum of $200,000 has been placed in the supplementary estimates towards completing the Canadian Pacific in British Columbia.

To-day's Despatches

ORANGE-CATHOLIC RIOTS.

BELFAST, June 6.—The funeral of Curran, the young man who lost his life by drowning during the recent Orange-Catholic riot, took place to-day. The body was followed to the cemetery by a procession of twenty thousand Catholics. A body of Orangemen threw stones at the procession and the Catholics in retaliation made an assault on the Orangemen and drove them away. A number of shots were fired, and one man was stabbed and several persons cut on the head. Finally the police succeeded in restoring order. The Catholics smashed the windows of the Broadway linen factory. There were some further disturbances late in the evening. Philip Rice, driller, and John Beatty and Alex. Stewart, fitters, have been arrested on a charge of rioting on Friday and murdering young Curran. James MacMurray, Catholic, has been arrested on a charge of firing a revolver from the funeral procession to-day.

CONSULAR DINNER.

LONDON, June 6.—The first consular dinner ever held in London was given here last night at the St. George's club, the Swiss consul presiding. Many foreign representatives were present. Plates were drawn by lot. The chief toast was "Our Countries." Mr. Penfield, U. S. Vice Consul General, was secretary and treasurer.

THE HOME RULE CRISIS.

LONDON, June 6.—Politicians have been active throughout the day. As a result of the day's meetings, all political rendezvous shows that there is little hope that the Home Rule bill will pass, although many Ministerialists claim that Mr. Gladstone's reply to Commoner Moulton's letter has secured more waverers. On the other hand, Mr. Labouchere who has been conducting the negotiations with the malcontents has thrown—

[Here the wires broke down.]

BRITISH COLUMBIA ABROAD.

A correspondent writing of Canada's exhibit at the Colonial Exhibition says: Besides this there were representative exhibits of lumber, and particular mention should be made of the British Columbia wood trophy. This was built of planks of the gigantic conifers of that province, amongst which there was one fully twenty feet in length and four feet in width, without a single knot or blemish. That must necessarily have been cut from a very large tree. Were there other specimens illustrating the size to which those trees grow? Yes; speaking from memory, not only was there a large number of these planks used in the construction of the trophy, but outside of the building there was another collection of Canadian woods, which were actually of such enormous proportions as to be inadmissable to the court. The background was a magnificent section of the Douglas fir tree, and which was over thirteen feet in diameter. It made the British visitors open their eyes, but that is not by any means the largest of the British Columbian trees. There are giant cedars there that measure seventeen feet in diameter.

YALE DISTRICT.

Mr. G. Forbes Vernon, Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works during the Elliot administration, it is reported will be a candidate for Yale district in the next Assembly. He left for the mainland this morning to prosecute his canvass. It is rumored that Mr. Mara and Mr. Vernon have reached an understanding relative to the representation in the Commons, Mr. Vernon waives his claim in favor of Mr. Mara, who in turn has consented to support Mr. Vernon for the local legislature. The determination is to switch Mr. Semlin off the track if possible by these worthies as they believe that he will be offered a portfolio in the next cabinet. The electors have a voice in the matter and they have yet to be heard from.

THE CROPS.

Mr. M. Baker, of this city, last week paid a visit to a number of the leading farms on the delta, and found the crops in an advanced state considering the lateness of the spring. The acreage sown is fully one-third more than ever before. Mr. J. Calhoun has four hundred acres of splendid looking grain, while the farms of John Dooley, Wm. Arthur, Wm. Ladner and others are all in fine condition. The latter will have an immense bay crop. Mr. Baker thinks that the yield this year will be far in excess of any previous year.

ESQUIMALT DISTRICT.

A member of the cabinet during his canvass in the city to-day has stated that Messrs. D. W. Higgins and C. E. Pooley would be candidates for Esquimalt district in the interest of the government. Mr. Helgesen will be back again in a few days and enter upon a canvass of the district for a renewal of the confidence he has so long received from the electors and whom he has so faithfully served in the past.

FOR ALBERNI.

The government guide, Mr. Wm. Halpenny, did not go on the Maude to-day to Alberni. Parties wishing to accompany him there in search of land should report before Wednesday morning next, when he will leave by the Amelia, if several land hunters present themselves.

KOOTENAY RAILWAY.

Messrs. Ludovici and Gamble, passengers by the steamer Starr this morning, are reported to be here on business connected with the Kootenay Railway Co. They are now direct from the mines on Kootenay Lake.

CHICKEN STEALING.

The chicken house of "mine hostess" of the Telegraph Hotel was raided last night and a number of fowls carried off. The raiders were doubtless Chinamen.

THE FINAL CONFLICT.

It is the generally expressed opinion of all unbiased persons, such as are capable of forming a judgment on the subject, that Mr. GLADSTONE has displayed admirable generalship in dealing with his Home Rule Bill; in short that he has completely baffled his opponents. It was understood last week that a vote on the question would be reached to-night, Monday; that the debate on its second reading would be closed. Three weeks ago advices from Britain were of such a nature as to indicate beyond question the measure as irreparably doomed. There were, however, a large number who believed then, as now, in the triumph of the principle of local independence, believing it to be based on the essential justice of the cause, on the almost universal recognition of its beneficence and equity by the sound headed masses of the Liberal party as well as in the extraordinary dexterity of the great minister who has made the hopes of Ireland his own cause. To many, the forces massed against the bill may seem to have been redoubtable, for it cannot be denied that nearly every representative of rank and opulence who once gave social prestige to Liberal opinions was inflexibly and angrily arrayed against the measure. All the Whig dukes and nine-tenths of the old Whig aristocracy renounced Mr. GLADSTONE and his works. On the score, too, of parliamentary repute and ability, the dissidents showed a formidable front. Three months ago it was supposed that Lord HARTINGTON, who had been at one time the official leader of the Liberal party, wielded an influence hardly inferior to that of the Premier himself, and that Mr. JOSEPH CHAMBERLAIN, as the dictator of the huge organization springing from the Birmingham caucus, was the power behind the throne. The ranks, indeed, of the secessionists were full of former Cabinet Ministers and veteran upholders of the Liberal standard, including men of such unquestioned weight and distinction as GEORGE J. GOSCHEN and JOHN BRIGHT. In well-earned authority, in strategical experience, in debating power, the managers of the revolt against Mr. GLADSTONE surpassed even the Peelites, who were dreaded and courted in the House of Commons long after they had ceased to have an appreciable hold upon the country. What has come of this imposing muster of trained talent and great name, pertinently asks a contemporary, except the puncture of a multitude of two distended reputations and the conclusive demonstration of the Premier's pre-eminence? As his old comrade's and lieutenants forsook him to dilate the strength and point the shafts of his opponents, GLADSTONE stood like a tower, and as the voice of their commander rung out in challenge and resolve, the quaking ranks of the discouraged closed up in confidence and hope. The deserters sourly wished him joy of his new Irish allies, and by his tone and attitude he answered that they should yet be witnesses of his joy. It is now believed that his proud trust in himself and in his cause is almost certain to be saperbly justified. In the masterly manœuvres and politic appeals by which he has checked defection and discomfited his enemies, it will be found that Mr. GLADSTONE has sacrificed nothing worth keeping, and that he means to renounce nothing which the Parnellites themselves deem indispensable to the autonomy of Ireland. If on minor points he has displayed a conciliatory temper, it was because his eyes have never swerved from his one transcendent object, which was to wrench from a British House of Commons the momentous affirmation of the innate right of Irishmen to rule themselves. He knew the infinite importance of gaining the first pitched battle on that capital issue, and he was resolved to fight only when the omens were propitious and on ground of his own choosing. In the final combat, probably taking place as these words are being read, his friends at last feel sure of victory, and in the truce to supervene his lately exultant enemies will be meetly occupied in burying their dead.

SHEEP RAISING.

It is universally admitted that no branch of live stock raising pays so well, or is so lucrative to a farmer as a flock of sheep. The vast numbers that are imported from the Sound into Victoria attest the fact that there is here a steady and a growing market for this class of flesh producing animals. A writer of eminence discussing the "Sheep Industry" in the Tribune-Farmer, says that he would not advise anyone who has not had experience to start with a large flock, but rather with a few, and learn the business by actual experience. Sheep are usually cheap before as well as after shearing. In many sections, where they are raised in this province, as well as across the lines, fairly good sheep can be purchased for $3 to $5 each; they will afford an income from the wool of at least $2, and a lamb worth from $2 to $4 next year. A sheep which costs $5 should have a lamb worth to the butcher this time next year between $3 and $4. The first flock of sheep we ever owned we bought of a neighbor at $2 50 each in the late autumn. The wool the following year sold for enough to pay for the sheep, and left the sheep and lambs clear, not counting the keeping. Every farm can support a small flock of sheep, and the keeping will hardly be felt. In the spring they may be turned into the field designed for cows, and here they can remain until the ground is all plowed, and then if there is a field in which it is proposed to put buckwheat, they can run there, and in this way no extra pasture is required. A little grain can be fed to sheep if the pasture is light, or make up deficiencies. There is no stock with which a little grain goes so far to make good condition. It promotes the growth of the fleece and also of the body. Sheep are so little trouble that a farmer can care for them however short-handed he may be. A child eight years of age can look after the sheep. They do not require to be fed in winter more than twice a day, as the racks well-filled in the morning will last all day. Early lambs will always sell at a high price, and lambs always sell for a price above other meats. Old ewes should be avoided, as they shear light fleeces and are hard to winter. Unless an ewe is specially valuable it is a good plan to turn her off when five years old. This is when the teeth are full and while they are in perfect shape for the mastication and rumination of food. Some farmers buy ewes in the summer and have the lambs come in winter and then sell them and fatten the old ewes, thus turning off the entire flock yearly. This is a good way to enrich the farm and it always is profitable, as the ewes, by feeding them in the pasture, will be ready for market by spring, and thus the feeding of hay may be avoided. The farmer must be careful not to take home with him any of the infectious diseases sheep are subject to, namely, scab or foot rot. These can be detected by a careful examination of the flock. Wool has gone as low as it will and from now on the tendency will be for a slight rise. A rising or a steady market is an encouraging feature for an investment.

THE FISHERY TROUBLE.

Judge SAVARY of Digby, Nova Scotia, is reported by the Halifax Herald to have said that "if we yield "the bait question we yield every "thing we have by which to secure "compensatory advantages, and our "fishery privileges are irrevocably "gone;" and then adds that "either "the United States must give us a "free market for our fish, or by deny "ing them bait and ice we shall crip "ple their fishing industry, and thus "finally have access to their markets "in spite of themselves."

Commenting on the above the N. Y. Sun which has taken a very prominent part in the discussion says: "This is a very frank avowal of the Canadian position in its latest phase. At first the demand for a free market here and other privileges as against American fishermen, was based on the assumption that we could not get along without the right to fish inside the three-mile limit. Our fishermen have shown that they care nothing whatever for the fish inside the three-mile limit. Now, in order to force us into an arrangement which they want, and we do not want, the Canadian statesmen propose to starve the poor squid catchers of Nova Scotia and Newfoundland, whose livelihood has been derived from the sale of bait to our vessels, and whose traffic with the American fishermen is a matter outside of the main question. Canada is very much in earnest, for she has a great deal to gain. It remains to be seen whether she will be able in this way or any other to cripple our fishing industry and force her fish into our markets free in spite of ourselves."

As will be observed by reference to the tariff changes which appear in another column, the deputation of eastern whole sale grocers and others, who waited a few weeks since on the minister of Finance succeded in its mission, as the grade of sugars subject to the lower duty has been raised from No. 13 to 14 Dutch standard. This will enable the grocery grades of Porto Rico and Mascovado sugars to be imported at the lower duty. An export duty of $2 on spruce saw logs, $3 on pine saw logs per 1,000 feet broad measurement, and of $1·50 on shingle bolts per cord, has been imposed, but power is retained by the Government to remove these duties by order in council whenever deemed advisable. This provision is made in the event of reciprocity with the United States in lumber being obtained. The importation of oleomargarine, butterine and imitations of butter is prohibited under a penalty of not less than $200 nor more than $400 for each offence. The other changes are largely from ad valorem to specific duties in order to prevent undervaluation.

DYSPEPSIA.

Sedentary habits, mental worry, nervous excitement, excess or imprudence in eating or drinking, and various other causes, induce Constipation followed by general derangement of the liver, kidneys, and stomach, in which the disorder of each organ increases the infirmity of the others.

The immediate results are Loss of Appetite, Nausea, Foul Breath, Heartburn, Flatulence, Dizziness, Sick Headaches, failure of physical and mental vigor, distressing sense of weight and fullness in the stomach, and increased Costiveness, all of which are known under one head as Dyspepsia.

In every instance where this disease does not originate from scrofulous taint in the blood, AYER'S PILLS may be confidently relied upon to effect a cure. Those cases not amenable to the curative influence of AYER'S PILLS alone will certainly yield if the PILLS are aided by the powerful blood-purifying properties of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA.

Dyspepties should know that the longer treatment of their malady is postponed, the more difficult of cure it becomes.

Ayer's Pills

Never fail to relieve the bowels and promote their healthful and regular action, and thus cure Dyspepsia. Temporary palliatives all do permanent harm. The fitful activity into which the enfeebled stomach is spurred by "bitters," and alcoholic stimulants, is inevitably followed by reaction that leaves the organ weaker than before.

"Costiveness, induced by my sedentary habits of life, became chronic; AYER'S PILLS afforded me speedy relief. Their occasional use has since kept me all right." HERMANN BRUNORR, Newark, N. J.

"I was induced to try AYER'S PILLS as a remedy for Indigestion, Constipation, and Headache, from which I had long been a sufferer. I found their action easy, and obtained prompt relief. They have benefited me more than all the medicines ever before tried." M. V. WATSON, 152 State St., Chicago, Ill.

"They have entirely corrected the costive habit, and vastly improved my general health." REV. FRANCIS B. HARLOWE, Atlanta, Ga.

"The most effective and the easiest physic I have ever found. One dose will quickly move my bowels and free my head from pain." W. L. PAGE, Richmond, Va.

"A sufferer from Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, and Neuralgia for the last twenty years, AYER'S PILLS have benefited me more than any medicine I have ever taken." P. R. ROGERS, Newsboy, Brown Co., Ind.

"For Dyspepsia they are invaluable." J. T. HAYES, Mexia, Texas.

THE SILVERSPINS.

There were four Miss Silverspins, and Leona, the youngest of all, was married first.

Miss Silverspin was literary, corresponded with two or three country newspapers, wrote essays, and even tried her hand at poetry. Miss Eudora Silverspin was domestic, kept a big receipt book, counted the bars of soap, and nearly drove the one maid of all work distracted with her constant criticisms and surveillance. Miss Rebecca, the third, belonged to the congregation of "St. Petrifactus-in-the Highway," was one of a sisterhood, and visited the poor until the poor were heartily sick of her. And little Leona, the eighteen-year-old "baby" of the family, was considered as good for nothing in particular, except to be snubbed, scolded, and ordered around by all three of her sisters, until Mr. Motley came along and married her.

"The man must be crazy to fancy a chit of a thing like Leona," said Miss Silverspin. "I did think he had sou a literary taste, but of course he can't have, when he is satisfied with a wife who can never read Carlysle, and knows nothing about Hume and Macaulay."

"One would suppose," added Miss Eudora, acrimoniously, "that a man would select for a life companion one who understands the art of housekeeping, and can make his home comfortable! Leona never baked a biscuit in her life, and as for preserving I don't think she knows the difference between a damsen and a greengage!"

"All this is mere folly and trifling," said the sister of St. Petriacius, rolling her eyes skyward. "No man who is entirely devoid of the devotional element can be expected to show common sense in his matrimonial choice."

"Leona knows nothing at all about him," said Miss Silverspin, sharply.

"He may be a mere imposter, for anything we know," said Miss Eudora.

"Leona will be sure to repent her headlong haste one of these days," said Miss Rebecca.

But in spite of all this croaking, little Leona was a happy as a bird. She loved John Motley, and John Motley loved her. What else was wanting to complete her bliss. She went to housekeeping in a little bird's nest of a house, with the curtains all looped back with blue ribbons, and plants and canary birds in every window, and the three Miss Silverspins came there frequently to breakfast, dinner, and tea, although they took no pains to conceal their disapprobation of her match.

"Nothing but an engraver," said Miss Silverspin, sourly. "I did think, Leona, you would have looked higher."

"It's a very respectable business, I am sure," said Leona, timidly.

"You'll be sure to repent of it one of these days," said Miss Eudora.

"I'm sure I don't know why," said Leona, ready to cry.

"He is a free-thinker and an infidel," groaned Rebecca.

"He isn't!" retorted Leona, half frightened at her own boldness. "He reads the Bible every day, and is very regular at church."

"It's all a white sepulcher," sighed the sister of St. Petrifacius.

"I wish they'd all get married, too," thought Leona, "and then, perhaps, they'd have enough to do attending to their husbands to keep away from here!"

The next week the three sisters arrived en masse, with faces a yard long and eyes aglitter with gloomy triumph.

"I told you so," said Miss Silverspin.

"I foresaw it from the very beginning," said Rebecca.

"It's no more than you might have expected," added Eudora.

"Do speak out!" cried bewildred Leona. "I don't at all understand what you mean!"

"Did you know, wretched child," said Miss Silverspin, leaning forward and altering her voice to a sepulchral key, "that your husband has been stealing safes?"

"Of course I knew that he was a widower," said Leona, much relieved. "Do you suppose he has any secrets from me?"

"But did you know," struck in the devotee of the saint with the stony name, "that the first Mrs. Motley is still living?"

"Nonsense," said Leona. "She died within six months of their marriage, and is buried at Milwaukee."

"Poor deceived lamb!" groaned Eudora. "She's living now. It was not even a divorce; only a legal separation, and he has no more right to get married than—than any other man that is tied tight and fast to a living wife!"

Leona turned very pale.

"That is false!" she cried. "You are deceiving me!"

"Seeing is believing," said Mrs. Silverspin. "She's down stairs in the reception room."

"Who is?" gasped Leona.

"The first Mrs. Motley!"

Leona started up with glittering eyes and crimson cheeks.

"How dare she come here! Here to my very house!" she cried out.

"Because she wants her husband," said Eudora. "Be calm, child, I entreat. Sister Rebecca, lead in the real Mrs. Motley."

And before Leona could inutter words to remonstrate a tall female wearing blue spectacles and a water-proof suit stalked in.

"Who are you?" cried Leona, starting up. "And what do you want?"

"I am Mrs. John Motley," answered the gaunt female, with a wave of her umbrella, "and I want my husband. He married me out West three years ago, and now he's cleared out and don't allow me one penny of maintenance. And he's been gone and married again, and I'll have him up for bigamy as sure as my name is Phili Maria Motley! What's the use of laws, if this is the way a respectable woman is to be swindled out of her support?"

Leona sank back, pale and startled, as if she had seen a ghost. And so she had—not only the ghost of the woman she had deemed dead and in her grave years ago, but the sheeted specter of her own married love and happiness.

Poor, trembling, pallid little Leona! And the three Miss Silverspins stood around, triumphing in her dismay, like exultant ghouls, crying in one voice:

"Didn't we tell you so?"

Just at this moment the door opened and in walked Mr. John Motley himself.

"Hallo!" cried he. "What's the matter, Leo? What's all this about?"

"Deceiver!" shrieked Miss Silverspin.

"Bigamist!" shouted Miss Rebecca.

"Are you all mad?" said Mr. Motley, looking from one to the other.

"John, who is that? Speak!" sobbed out poor Leona, pointing to the tall woman in the blue spectacles.

"I'm hanged if I know," said Mr. Motley, looking her full in the face.

The three Miss Silverspins stared.

"She said she was your first wife," cried they in chorus. "She said she wasn't divorced—only legally separated. She said you were her lawful husband, and that Leona wasn't your wife at all."

"Then she has told a pack of confounded lies!" roared John Motely, with flashing eyes.

"Isn't this man your husband?" demanded Miss Silverspin, shaking the tall stranger by the shoulder.

"No, he ain't!" sheepishly confessed the sot-distant Mrs. Motley. "My husband's name is John Motely, but he ain't this man at all. My husband is tall and stout, with red hair and whiskers, face marked with small-pox, and only one eye.

"There's a John Motley keeps a grocery store down by the river," said the other possessor of that name. "Perhaps—"

"That's him," said the spectacled one, with alacrity. "He always knowed a heap about the grocery business. He's pretty sly, but he can't dodge me."

And exit the would-be destroyer of Leona Motley's domestic peace.

The three Miss Silverspins retreated in disorder, mutually reproaching one another. Leona had a good cry and laugh on her husband's shoulder, and Mr. Motley registered, then and there, a solemn vow that the three sisters-in-law should keep out of his house thereafter.

And he kept it, too.

Aim above morality. Be not simply good. Be good for something.—Thoreau.

Where Society Is Badly Mixed Up

The show of horsemen and horsewomen at the Casino, a restaurant maintained by the park commissioners, is worth going to see on a pleasant morning or afternoon, the former time being the more favorable, because the fashionably correct hour for a gallop is just after breakfast. But an experienced explainer is requisite for a complete understanding of the assemblages. The sightliest girl may be either a Fifth avenue belle or a social outcast, for all that a stranger can know from appearances; the solid-looking man is possibly the bank president that he looks, or just as likely the banker of a faro game; and the intensified dandy gives no conclusive evidence whether he is a scion of wealth, to whom the expenditure of time and money is of no consequence, or a chap who nervously watches the lapse of the hour, like a child cautiously licking instead of biting an unusual stick of candy, in order to enjoy it to the utmost before reaching the end. No sport has more various devotees.

The indiscriminate character of these road gatherings and the casual throwing together of good and bad people in the restaurants where equestrians habitually stop for rest of legs and refreshment of palate are not infrequently turned to account by thieves. Only a few days ago a spruce fellow rode up to the front of a house in which twenty or thirty persons were eating and drinking. Perhaps half were equestrians, like himself, in costumes that had nothing to throw off while indoors, but the rest included women who had laid aside their wraps. Selecting a $500 fur garment that lay on a chair behind the owner, and close to a door, he boldly threw it over his arm, sauntered out on the rear veranda, and tossed it down to a pal who was in waiting. These scoundrels or others had practiced the same trick before, however, and the waiters had been told to watch for a repetition of the feat; and so the very presentable horseman, known to the police as "Jim Jerk," was arrested on the spot. He had for months been an habitual rider in Central park, a cash customer of a neighboring stable, and a liberal boarder at a first-rate hotel, all on the proceeds of robberies like the one at which he was caught. His domicile is now the Tombs.—New York Cor. Chicago Tribune.

Clara Morris' Studies in Realism.

"Have I ever studied much from real life. Oh, yes; on two memorable occasions in particular; both were at hospitals; one was the hacking cough of the consumptive. There is the bark and the hack. I studied the hack. I coughed for days in my room until I got the hack perfect." Here the actress began to cough a hacking cough that would have caused almost any physician who might have heard her to say that she was a consumptive and couldn't live long. "Of course," continued the actress, "coughing racks the voice, but an actress' voice has a great deal to stand. Talking makes it stronger. There are draughts on cold stages to be encountered in low-neck dresses, and many other little annoyances to contend with, but I have always preferred a bare throat, winter and summer, to wrapping up. I think there is less danger.

"Another study I made was the actions of a person troubled with heart disease. A specialist secured me a subject from a hospital in the shape of a middle-aged woman, a charity patient. When she came into the room where I was, she came quickly. She had run up stairs. Just as she got to the door a pain shot through her heart. That was the action I wanted to catch. Hardly an actor or actress on the stage to-day but what in placing their hand over their heart does it exactly wrongly, and many don't know the exact location of their heart. I didn't know where mine was exactly situated until I had inquired of my physician."—Dramatic Review.

Six Bottles of Best Champagne.

At Dussaux's restaurnt, in the Grand Morskoi at St. Petersburg, six officers of the imperial horse guards sat drinking champagne. Not far from them sat an insignificant little man with a shabby coat and an unkempt beard, and a glass of liquor in front of him. It was not long before he became aware that he was being ridiculed by the officers aforesaid. By and by, as they became more and more offensive in their remarks on his personal appearance, etc., he called for the waiter, and said: "Bring me six bottles of your best champagne." The waiter hesitated. "Did you not hear what I said?" asked the little man. The waiter brought the wine and six glasses. "Take these glasses away and fetch a basin—one as large as you can find." The waiter again hesitated, but obeyed instantly at the peremptory repetition of the order. "A piece of soap," was the next order. It was brought. "A towel." The waiter handed him one. "Now open the bottles." The waiter did so. The little man now filled the basin with the contents of the six bottles, rolled up his sleeves, washed himself in the costly fluid, wiped his hands, laid a 100-rouble note on the table, and, casting a look of withering contempt on the officers, strutted out of the room.—San Francisco Argonaut.

The Darkey and His Cranium.

It is fun to see the darkies when a summer rain comes up. They will plow on until the shower comes and then mount and lope home and get wet all over, and by that time the rain is over and they have to go back again. The darkey takes more care of his head than his feet. He don't want his head to get wet or cold. He sleeps with his head to the fire and covers it up good and lets his feet stick out any way. He will warm his hands before he will his toes. There is one thing that a darkey can do better than a white man. He can beat us making fires on a cold, wintry morning. Sometimes when the wood was wet and the kindling poor I have despaired of making it burn, but a darkey never fails. The fire seems to recognize him and I have thought that maybe it drew some colored caloric from his carcass.—Bill Arp in Atlanta Constitution.

The Clown's Death Mask.

[Philadelphia Times.]

Kalpistri, who committed suicide in Paris the other day, was a pupil of Debureau, the greatest pantomimist that ever appeared upon the French stage. Kalpistri's great character was the Pierro or white faced clown of French pantomine. "Nobody knows what that whitened face really means," he told a a French journalist one day. "It means death, whose pale mask reflects the emotions more quickly and completely than the living face. The slightest wrinkle or contraction of the features has a world of meaning. The most trifling change in the disposition of a dead man's feature has a more poignant signification than the most violent grimace of the living.

Pierrot has the face of the dead. If he whitens it, it is that the slightest play of feature may excite in the violent emotion that watching the contraction of a dead man's features gives us. If our impressions are more violent it is because Pierrot is death—laughing, crying or surprised; that is, not the ordinary death's head, with its fleshless skull, eyeless sockets and meaningless grin, but the head of death the moment after the soul has taken flight.

"I only tried it once," said the poor fellow, "but the people were afraid. They had to ring the curtain down. They thought I was drunk," and he burst into tears. He was a victim of acute melancholia.

The Danger of High Living.

It is not astonishing to people who knew Hancock to hear that his death was largely caused by high living. His every air was that of a bon vivant. He liked good wines and rich food, and his system was in such a condition as to be ready for the attack of disease.—Cor. Cleveland Leader.

REPLY.

VICTORIA, 25th May, 1886.

TO MESSRS. J. WEBB, J. PARGETER, W. AKENHEAD and others.

GENTLEMEN:—Until the receipt of your numerously signed requisition it was not my intention to become a candidate for your district, for I felt that you might consider my time was so thoroughly occupied with my own business affairs that your interests could be better entrusted to other hands than my own. I cannot, however, disregard the requisition you have so kindly sent me, recognizing therein that whatever has been lacking in my effort on your behalf you credit me in the past with good intentions, and express confidence as to my conserving your interests in the future. I cannot afford to refuse compliance with the wishes of so many who are residents of a district in which I have spent the best portion of my life and in which they and myself have a common interest. I therefor heartily thank you for your nomination and cheerfully accept it, and if elected I shall do my best to promote the well being of your constituency.

I believe that the Government which I have supported during the past four years has materially advanced the prosperity of the Province, and while their efforts are continued in the same direction, I shall, if elected, render them independent support, believing such a course will be in the best interest of the country and in accordance with the view of the great majority of the whole people.

I am Gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,

At the urgent solicitation of a large number of the electors of Saanich THE TIMES has been requested to state that the Hon. T. R. Just received Opera and Field Glasses, best quality. H. W. Waitt & Co.

BONDED FREIGHT.

Bonded freight, says the Tacoma News is reported as not coming over the Northern Pacific to such an extent now as formerly. It is said that Canadians are holding back their freight to send it over the Canadian Pacific as soon as that road commences operations, which it is supposed it will do in about fifteen days. While the Canadian Pacific will get a considerable share of the through freight to this city and coast ports in the province, the Northern Pacific will always command a certain amount thereof. It will simply be a matter of dollars and cents, not of sentiment, with importers and the route offering the best rates will receive their patronage. The spring trade is over, but the fall imports promise to be considerable, and for this traffic especially from eastern points, such as Portland, Boston, New York and all Canadian points were competition exists between the Grand Trunk and the C. P. R., the rates will be out very fine. All of which will prove of advantage to Victoria's importers.

A DISTINGUISHED VISITOR.

Last night, says the Hamilton Spectator of the 27th ult., was a gala night for the brethern of the Canadian Order of Oddfellows in Hamilton. S. J. Wade, P. D. G. M. of British Columbia, who has been appointed grand organizer of the order throughout Canada and the United States, paid his first official visit to Hamilton, and the three city lodges—Hamilton Commercial and Strict observance—united to do him honor. Gordon Commandery, Royal Purple Knights, headed by the Independent fife and drum band, marched to the Dominion hotel and escorted Mr. Wade to the lodge room, where a banquet had been prepared. Seventy-five members of the order sat down to the well-loaded tables, and passed a delightful time together. D. D. G. M. Cook was chairman, and P. G. M. Clarke, vice-chairman. Mr. Wade was greatly pleased with this demonstration in his honor.

FROM THE NORTH.

The Barbara Boscowitz arrived from Port Simpson on Saturday evening. Three canneries on the Skeena are reported running, but the fish are scarce. The house of Rev. Jennings at Port Essington was slightly damaged some time ago by fire. There is some little dissatisfaction between Indian tribes on the Naas river in respect to reserves which Capt. Jemmet went up on last steamer to survey on behalf of the Dominion Government. One of the tribes there the Tehimeheens is afraid that after the survey is made they will not continue to enjoy privileges to the same extent in the fishing of oolachans that they do at present. It is claimed that the Dominion Government promised the tribes to adjust these reserves before surveying them.

INEQUALITY OF SALARIES.

If gentlemen engaged on newspapers and in literary pursuits, were inclined to value their labors by a monetary standard, rather than by the good they do in obtaining and maintaining freedom for the people and leading public opinion to higher and nobler plains, they might be sadly disgruntled on finding that Archer and Wood, the two English jockies, made last year respectively, $50,000 and $45,000. Why that is fully half as much as the income of a good country editor. In fact we have strong reason to believe that at last one remarkably clever editor does not get a cent more than $50,000 a year. And these fellows are mere horse jockeys, doncher know. Such are the inequalities of our disgustingly artificial state of society.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

A THOROUGHBRED SOLD.

Captain Sweeney, of the coasting steamer "Lottie," hailing from San Juan, U. S., has just purchased for a Mr. Doyle, farmer there, from Dr. Tolmie, of this city, the handsome grade shorthorn bull calf "Fingal," almost a year old. Fingal, a deep roan, with lighter band across shoulders, is descended from the best shorthorn stock to be obtained in 1871, from the most improved herds in Canada and the States, by Messrs. Ladd & Reed, Portland, Or. Fingal is also connected with the shorthorn registered stock of Mr. R. Ashburner, San Mateo, Cal., himself a frequent importer of shorthorns from the North of England.

NOT SO SURE.

The trotting race last Saturday was looked upon as a certain victory for Sleepy George after the second heat. "Safe betters" accordingly put their money on the horse, chuckling to themselves that they could find anyone so foolish to bet against them, as it was a "dead thing" for the horse. Odds of two and three to one were freely given and quietly taken by Fanny Irving's admirers. The last three heats proved a veritable Waterloo to the horse, and his admirers consoled themselves with humming the refrain "All that glitters is not gold." A large amount of money changed hands on the result.

RETURNING OFFICERS.

His Honor the Lieut.-Governor has appointed the following gentlemen as returning officers for the respective electoral districts in this province: H. W. H. Combe, for Victoria city; Thornton Fell, Victoria district; M. Bray, Nanaimo; J. J. Austin, Esquimalt; Henry Fry, Cowichan; G. F. Drabble, Comox; Charles Warwick, New Westminster city; J. C. Hughes, New Westminster district; William Dodd, Yale; Fred. Soule, Lillooet; John Bowron, Cariboo; A. W. Vowell, Kootenay; Walter Anderson, Cassiar.

DOMINION ALLIANCE.

A branch of the Dominion Alliance has been formed at Nanaimo, with the following officers: Rev. E. Robson, President; Mr. G. Campbell, Sec.-Treasurer; Messrs. S. Gough, Jas. Young and Chas. Wilson, members of the executive committee. The election of vice-presidents was deferred to a future occasion. Rev. Mr. Frazer is to be invited to address a meeting on the aims and objects of the organization.

COULDN'T LAND.

A party of gentlemen yesterday sailed round to Parson's Bridge in a steam launch, but owing to the low state of the tide a landing could not be made. An attempt was made to land on Magazine Island, but keeper Downer's dogs, considering it a suspicious looking craft, entered a protest, and the captain was compelled to turn the prow to a less inhospitable shore.

STREET FIGHT.

Last Saturday evening in front of an up town saloon on Yates street, two modern light weights met and tried to settle an old grievance with nature's weapons. A black eye was the only damage done and raw beef was in demand. A large crowd congregated and witnessed the brutal affair.

ATHLETIC.

Scott won the half-mile race on Saturday at the agricultural grounds, beating Vernell easily. The race was understood to be on its merits.

The five mile walking contest was won by Watson by one lap. The winner thus becomes the owner of the club medal.

The Methodist Church Sabbath School Picnic on Dominion Day to Peddar Bay and return, $1. Tickets for sale at the Book Stores.

STAGE ROBBERY.

A telegram from Cache Creek on Saturday says that about 10 o'clock this morning, when one mile south of the 83 mile stable, the B. C. Express company's coach, Tate driver, was stopped by two masked highwaymen, who fired shots from revolvers and a Winchester rifle over his head. The highwaymen seized the Cariboo treasure bag, which they robbed of its contents, with the exception of one small package of $1000, which they overlooked in their haste. Tate was then ordered to drive on which he gladly did. Constables are in pursuit.

The following telegram was received by Mr. Frank S. Barnard:

CACHE CREEK, June 5, 1886.—About 10 o'clock this morning, one mile south of 83-mile stables, just after changing horses on the Cariboo stage, Driver Tate heard two shots fired in the bush just ahead and to one side of the road. He supposed Indians were hunting, but immediately after two masked men, armed with revolvers and Winchester rifles came out on the road. They called to him to stop and at the same time fired a shot over his head. They then ordered him to get down from the box and Tate said it was not safe to leave the horses. They replied: "It's a d—d sight safer than to sit there; get down, tie the lines light to the brake and unhitch the inside wheel traces," with which he had to comply. One man then stood in front of the team with a rifle cocked and pointed at Tate, while the other looked for and found the treasure bag, saying, "This is what we want," ripped it open with his knife and took the contents. In their hurry they missed one small bag containing about $100M. They then ordered him to hitch up and go on, which he did without delay, overtaking me here at Cache Creek, about 5 this afternoon. Notice has been given to officers in Clinton, Kamloops and Spence's Bridge.

PROVINCIAL COURT.

Ah Jim, a hideous looking Celestial, pleaded guilty to stealing two geese from Mr. Phair, of the Goldstream House, and was sent to the chain-gang for one month. He has already served a term of six months in gaol, and looks a thief and vagabond all over.

The prisoners who were brought down by the Boscowitz on the second last trip were all liberated as there was no evidence for the prosecution. Wah Sing, alias Sing Lee, was held for robbery and forgery, and the Siwash and two Klootchmen for smuggling and dealing in liquor, and witnesses were expected down by the Boscowitz on Saturday but did not arrive. There was no other alternative but to dismiss them.

POLICE COURT.

(Before E. Johnson, S. M.)

Thos. Christopher, drunk; bail ($5) estreated.

Jim, a Fort Rupert, in possession of liquor; remanded until to-morrow for sentence.

Leo Ewers, a sailor on the bark George was charged by the captain with refusing to obey an order to wash off the deck. Prisoner in effect admitted the charge, but pleaded that he had been threatened by the mate. An opportunity was given him to issue a summons against that officer, and the two cases will be decided to-morrow.

Ah Lung, a miserable looking Chinese vagrant, was sent to gaol for one week.

GENERAL ELECTION.

Additional Polling Sub-Divisions Throughout the Province.

The Lieut. Governor, by virtue of the authority contained in the "Qualification and Registration of Voters' Act, 1876," has declared that the following additional polling places shall be established for the several electoral districts as named:

Cowichan—School House, Somenos.

New Westminster — Barton Prairie School House, Moodyville, Surrey Town Hall, Port Moody School House, Lehman's Landing School House, Clover Valley School House, Alder Grove, Shortreed's, Agassiz's Landing.

Yale — Ashcroft Station, Shuswap Prairie Postoffice, Priest's Valley, Government office, Coutlie's, Lower Nicola, Granite City, Government Office, Spallumcheen, at Geo. Wallace's.

Cariboo—Chilcotan.

Lillooet—Empire Ranch, west side of Fraser River.

Kootenay—Farwell, Windermere, Kootenay Lake, Golden City, Donald, Cranbrook, McCullogh's Creek.

Cassiar—Lorne Creek, Aberdeen, Metlakatlah, Naas River.

Alberni—Nanaimo.

MARINE.

The ship New York is about due from Liverpool with iron for the New Westminster branch road.

The Ancon will sail for Alaska from Seattle on the 14th inst.

The Mexico arrived from San Francisco at 10 a. m. There were 233 tons of freight on board for Victoria merchants.

The ship J. B. Walker, Capt. Wallace, now at Tacoma to load Carbon Hill coal for San Francisco, is the largest sailing vessel that ever came into that port. She is 2178 tons register, and will carry from 4100 to 4500 tons of coal. The Walker draws when loaded twenty-eight feet of water.

STABBED WITH A KNIFE.

A Horrible Murder at Point Roberts—Murderer Still at Large.

Superintendent Roycraft to-day received a telegram from New Westminster that information had just reached there that Bill Pollard had killed John McSweeney at Point Roberts on Sunday, by stabbing him with a knife. These are the only particulars thus far received. The murdered man and his murderer are unknown to the officers here, and the murderer is believed to be still at large.

AN INDEPENDENT CANDIDATE.

Mr. R. B. McMicking may be an "independent" candidate for the city at the coming election. Besides the recognized government and opposition candidates, the crop of "free-lances" promises to be a large one. Mr. McMicking is unquestionably well fitted for the position of representative, but we incline to the opinion that candidates of a neutral color will not be favorably received during the present temper of the electors. And yet there are not enough really independent men in public life.

MUSIC ON THE WATERS.

We understand that on next Wednesday evening the German Singing Society and the famous Queen City brass band will charter the steamer Emma and take a trip up the Gorge and return. When returning they will anchor in the harbor and discourse both vocal and instrumental music and make a display of fire works, such as rockets, blue and red lights, etc. The affair will be worth witnessing from the wharves.

KOOTENAY INDIANS.

Mr. G. B. Wright, who returned to the city to-day, has made the round trip to Farwell by rail and thence down the Columbia river to Kootenay, inspecting the country there in the interest of the railway company. He reports the Indians peaceable and was surprised on returning to learn that there were reports of an uprising.

CHALLENGE.

WE, the undersigned, do not feel satisfied with the result of the race on the 5th inst., and will match "Sleepy George" against the mare "Fanny Irving" for the sum of $250 a side, to be trotted according to the National Rules, at the Victoria Driving Park, in twenty days from the time this challenge is accepted. This challenge is left open until the 12th.

We consider we were unfairly dealt with in the last race by Jack Danvi and Bill Bowman, two of the Judges.
